ABSTRACT

Key words: speech act, locutionary act, illocutionary act, slogan

Language is always related to acts. When people are doing communication, they are not only delivering the message, but also performing an action from the utterance. This phenomenon is called speech acts. There are three types of speech act; locutionary act refers to what the speaker said, illocutionary act refers to force by the speaker, and perlocutionary act refers to the effect of the illocutionary act to the hearer. Speech acts can be found in daily communication, for example it can be found in slogan. In this study, the writer analyzes speech act within utterances contained in the slogan of car advertisements in Jawa Pos newspaper. There are three problems to be solved: (1) What are the locutionary and illocutionary acts used in slogan of car advertisements; (2) What are the types of sentences used in slogan of car advertisements; (3) What type of illocutionary act is mostly used in slogan of car advertisements.

This study used qualitative approach in document analysis since it focused on analyzing the utterances written in slogan. The data were collected from the slogan of car advertisements in Jawa Pos newspaper from December 2013 until February 2014. Then the data were analyzed by using Searle’s theory of speech act and using Yule’s theory to analyze the types of sentences.

From 26 utterances, it was found that those slogan utterances apply speech acts, especially locutionary and illocutionary acts. The types of sentences used include declarative, imperative, and interrogative. The most used type of illocutionary act is the express of assertion.
and illocutionary acts. Illocutionary acts were found in the forms of representative, directive, and declarative. Then, the types of sentences found in the slogan utterances of car advertisements are declaratives which are used to give information and imperatives which are used to make someone do something. Furthermore, the most frequent type of illocutionary acts found in the slogan utterance of car advertisement is representative.

The writer suggests the next researchers to analyze other slogan utterances to find out the slogan writer’s intents within the slogan utterances. In addition, it is suggested researchers to investigate other object, such as speech, movie script, comic, and any other media.
