Abstract: History and investigation of Nazi art looting through systematic confiscations of five private art collections: the Rothschilds, the Paul Rosenbergs, the Bernheim-Jeunes, the David-Weills and the Schlosses. The cultural spoils of war were destined for the museum of European art Hitler planned to create in Austria, and for the private collections of Hitler, Göring and other Nazi dignitaries. Looted Entartete Kunst was sold into France and Switzerland's flourishing wartime art market.
