The library of Sir Owen Dixon

Merralls, James

Abstract: A library is both a collection of books and the place where it is housed. I shall say a little about both concerning the library of Sir Own Dixon. Throughout his judicial career he possessed three collections of books: one at his home and one in each of his chambers in Melbourne and Sydney.