Funk Family Correspondence Web
Funck, a German/Swiss Mennonite family name, was native to the Canton of Zürich was found in the Palatinate in the 17th and 18th centuries. Henry Funk, a preacher of the canton of Bern, was scourged and expelled from Bern about 1671. Records show Mennonite Funks living in places near Heidelberg: Michelfeld 1662, Schaffhausen 1685, Richen 1717, Reihen 1724, Rohrbach 1752, and later in Eppingen 1778, where families of Funcks are listed from that time until recent times. The name Funk (Funck) was also found in West Prussia, appearing in all Frisian as well as in the Old Flemish congregations. At Danzig it has been mentioned since 1674. In every generation there have been preachers and elders among the Funcks. In 1710 Hans Funck was one of the original settlers in what is now Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Pioneer Bishop Heinrich "Henry" Funck (~1694-~1758) immigrated in 1717 to Philadelphia and in 1719 located in what is now Franconia Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania.

Although Swiss/German in origin, many of these early Americans immigrants to Pennsylvania became known as the "Pennsylvania Dutch". The early English settlers coined this term and they really meant to say "Deutsch", meaning German, but the word soon became corrupted into "Dutch". They applied this name to those Swiss, Germans and even French Huguenots who arrived here in the 1700's and settled in a certain small area roughly defined as south-central and eastern Pennsylvania, but in the latter part of the 1700's many migrated down into the Shenandoah Valley area of Maryland and Virginia and about 1800 began to move into Ohio and the Midwest. http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pennsylvania_Dutch Jacob and Henry Funk were among the first settlers of Harrison County, Indiana in about 1805. By 1800 the c was dropped and the Funk spelling was commonly used.

10-21-12 : email from David Harding

As you note, Catherine and her second husband, Samuel McGee, moved to Edgar County, IL, in about 1825. I'm not sure whether Catherine's son, George Harding, moved with them or followed. In any case George was a farmer, as were several of his sons. Jacob Harding served an apprenticeship with a newspaper printer in Corydon, IN, and then moved to Knoxville, where he read the law with a local attorney and politician, John Robinson Nelson, married Love Forrester Nelson, and with Nelson started a couple of unsuccessful newspapers.

In the mid 1830's Jacob and family moved to Edgar County, setting up shop in the county seat, Paris, and raising a large family. In the late 1840's, after the first couple of sons had done apprenticeships with newspapers in nearby counties, they started another newspaper, which survives today. All the Hardings mentioned in 1879's "The History of Edgar County, Illinois" are related.

Been Made.-----On Sunday evening at his home on Muscatine Island, occurred the death of Harbin H. Funk. He was born in Harrison county, Indiana, on March 19th, 1826, and was the youngest of a family of three children born to Abraham and Elizabeth Funk, native of Virginia and the mother of Kentucky. They settled in Indiana... been a soldier of the war of 1812 died in 1857. The mother afterwards settled in Mercer county, Illinois, in 1855 and two years later removed to their home on Muscatine Island, where the death of the wife occurred in 1877. The husband was remarried in 1885, and helped to plant and care for those now growing in Hopewell school yard and in the Island cemetery. He was a reader of books and newspapers for a portion of his life. He was not a believer in religion, but becoming convinced of its value he became an earnest student of the bible. He never united with the church but often expressed willingness to do so. He leaves behind him the priceless inheritance of a good name to become the heritage of his children, his many grand and great grand children. Mr. Funk had been enjoying his usual good health until the afternoon of Friday, April 14, when he was taken with an attack of stomach trouble. His attending physician did not consider his condition alarming but the end came unexpectedly Sunday night, April 15, when he passed quietly and easily into the great beyond at 9 p.m. It was a beautiful ending of a long and useful life coming at the close of the Easter tide.

Sarah married John "Berkenhiser" (way it is transcribed in Shenandoah County Index), 25 Sept. 1802, in Shenandoah Co. VA. Jacob and Elizabeth had a large family and moved to Harrison County Indiana about 1810. A good write up on this family can be found in an article by Arville Funk "The Funk Family Comes to Indiana" SOUTHERN INDIANA GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY QUARTERLY, Vol. IV, July 1983. This Jacob Funk was son of Henry Funk of Strasburg and grandson of "Old" Jacob Funk, early pioneer settler in the area who died in Strasburg in 1746.

Willis Funk

Birth: February 22, 1832 in Harrison County Indiana

1850 United States Federal Census - Indiana - Harrison - District 45: age 18 (20)
Mahala Purcell

Birth: September 8, 1832 in Harrison County Indiana

Father: Uriah Purcell, born ~1795 in Kentucky & died 1849 in Harrison County Indiana

Mother: Sarah "Sallie" Byrn, born 1797 in North Carolina & died 1891 in Harrison County Indiana

Death: June 7, 1919 at the age of 86 of "mental trouble" [Death Certificate]

Burial: Millport Cemetery just south of Rutledge Missouri, in Knox County

1851 Willis and Mahala were married March 16, 1851 in Harrison County Indiana.

1853 Willis and Mahala moved to Galesburg, Knox County, Illinois where Annie and Alexander were born.

1860 Moved near Millport MO. Willis had a lime kiln and made lime for plaster.

There are many lime caves in this region.
In about 1853, Willis and Mahala moved first from Harrison County, Indiana to Galesburg, Knox County, Illinois where their children Annie and Alexander were born.

In about 1860 they moved on to Rutledge, Missouri where they settled on a farm in Knox County near Rutledge Missouri.

I found two land patents where on August 27, 1850 Preston Funk (probably Willis' older half brother) paid $50 for 40 acres each in Knox County, Missouri.

Robert Kennett Funk wrote in his book that Mahala Byrn Purcell Funk was in some way related to the poet. Mahala's mother was named Sarah Byrn and maybe there is a connection there. They named their son Robert Morse after him and then Robert Kennett was named after his father Robert Morse. I have researched the descendants of Robert Burns and can not find a connection. Robert also claimed that there is some relation to Samuel Morse, inventor of the Morse Telegraph. From this Robert got his middle name Morse.
Robert's middle name "Morse" came from our relative Samuel Morse. I have found the name Morse used in the Summers family tree. Samuel Finley Breese Morse (1791-1872) was born in Massachusetts. In 1849 he patented the first successful electric telegraph in the United States and the dots and dashes of Morse Code used to send telegraphic messages.

It is of interest that in the fall of 1976, Rob, Gert and Eileen visited the old Funk homestead near Rutledge and saw the house Robert had built in 1887. It was well painted and people are still living in it. They also saw a mysterious huge mound of earth on that farm. Eileen and I remember of our father telling of this mound. People thought it was a burial mound the Indians had built many years before to investigate.

My grandma Funk tells me that Willis Funk was a Baptist pastor of a successful church in Missouri.

They also visited the church Robert had attended as a boy. Out back of this church many of the Funk relatives are buried. The graves are marked by nice markers. Sisters Mary and Eileen were instrumental in having new markers placed on the Funk graves in recent years. When Mary Funk was there in the 1950s there were no grave stones. She sent money to Eileen to get and place marble stones. This Eileen and her cousin Mary Johnston did in 1959.

Virginia City Montana

On May 26, 1863, Barney Hughes, Thomas Cover, Henry Rodgers, William Fairweather, Henry Edgar and Bill Sweeney camped along a small stream fringed with alder trees. Fairweather and Edgar went to prospect a place of rimrock. Fairweather dug the dirt, filled a pan and told Edgar to wash the pan in the hope of getting enough gold to buy tobacco. When the first pan turned up $2.40, they knew the gulch had great potential.

Word spread like wildfire. Miners covered the hillside with tents, brush shelters and crude log cabins. On June 16, the Varina Town Company platted the town. Some, supporters of Jefferson Davis and the Confederacy, intended to name the new town after Jefferson Davis' wife, Varina. But the newly elected miners' court judge, Dr. G. G. Bissell, was an equally stubborn Unionist. When it came time to file the official documents, he submitted the name Virginia instead.

Robert Morse Funk

Birth: May 10, 1864 to Willis and Mahala Funk in Knox County Missouri near small town of Rutledge
Marriage: Catherine Donegan in the parsonage of the Catholic Church in Laur
Death: March 24, 1952 at Sheridan, Madison, Montana
Burial: Sheridan Cemetery @ Sheridan, Madison County, Montana

In 1889, at the age of 25, Rob came to Virginia City.
He was first employed by the Buford Mercantile Company where he worked at Buford's O.K. Livery, Feed and Sale Stable that was located where the Opera House is today. Rob was a driver on the stage route from VC to Puller Springs in the Upper Ruby. The Stage stopped in Puller Springs at or near the Donegan Ranch owned by John C. Donegan, father of Catherine "Katie" Donegan. Rob and Katie were married on July 29, 1894 at the Catholic Church in Laurin. The livery stable barn burned, destroying carriages and several head of horses. After this disaster, Rob went to work for the Kersearge Mining Company as a night watchman at the Kersearge mine where their first son Willis was born in 1896.

Eileen and Mary Funk

Now the Opera House, from 1900 to the 1940s this building housed a barn and these places. Eileen Funk Yeager, a child of the early 1900s, tells a story in the Pioneer Trails book about games she and her sister Mary made up to amuse themselves involved gathering old chewed cigar butts from behind the livery barn. Each stogies. They had made a sidewalk of scrap wood in their backyard, and began toward each other, dressed in their dad’s old hats. They met in the middle and Mary answered, “Hello, Bob.” They had a set dialogue, and after a bit, Eileen took her cigar box. Each would take a stogie, light up, and saunter down the sidewalk roles and do it again. One day, Mary forgot and inhaled the cigar smoke. She house announcing dramatically, “Mama, Mary is dead!” Their mother rushed to a doctor who immediately asked Eileen, “What have you been smoking?” Eileen showed the box of damp, chewed cigar butts. This time her mother keeled over. Eileen didn’t understand why her mother fainted, but the spanking made a lasting impression. Eileen quit smoking at the age of six, and neither she nor Mary ever took it up again.

Death: November 16, 2014

Burial: Resurrection Cemetery Helena, Lewis and Clark County, Montana, USA

Jerry wrote a book titled: "Life is an Excellent Adventure: An Irreverent Personal Odyssey."

Jerry Funk, born in 1931, grew up in small-town Montana, served in the US Navy in Korea and Indo-China, became an intelligence officer in the CIA, worked for several years in international labor affairs with the AFL-CIO (in the Caribbean and Africa and elsewhere), was on the National Security Council staff in the Carter White House, became a vice-president of Bankers Trust in NYC, and worked to re-elect President Shagari in Nigeria in 1983. He ran his own international economic and political consulting firm, and completed his career working in the African diamond trade, retiring in 1995. Along the way he traveled 3 million miles, visited more than 100 countries, and raised three families of eleven remarkably interesting children. He resides in Helena, Montana.
Jerry Funk, a retired resident of Helena died on Sunday, November 16, 2014 at St. Peters Hospital. He was born in Great Falls on January 24, 1931, to Robert and Gertrude Funk. He grew up in Wolf Creek and graduated from Cathedral High School, in Helena in 1948, where he was noted for his “irreverence” as well as for his unlikely position as class valedictorian.

Jerry attended Carroll College and University of Montana briefly before joining the Navy during the Korean War. He graduated from the University of Portland in 1956 and was granted an NEA fellowship at the University of Washington, earning his MA in economics.

In early 1961 he joined the Central Intelligence Agency, as an intelligence analyst and later as an operations officer. Beginning in 1963 he worked in the international labor movement in Africa. In 1981, he joined Bankers Trust in New York as Vice President for political risk analysis for Africa and South Asia. In 1983 he served as a political consultant to President Shagari of Nigeria.

In 1984 he and his wife, Moffie, formed their own political and economic consulting company and in 1987 they went to work for Leon Tempelsman & Son and moved to Kinshasa, Zaire and later operations in Zaire, and Angola, and served as an informal adviser to President Nujoma of Namibia negotiating for a 50% Government of Namibia ownership of the large DeBeers diamond operations in Namibia now known as Namdeb.

In 1995 Jerry retired and he and Moffie and their two children, Robert and Laura, returned to Montana. Jerry was an active member of the Montana City school board, the Helena Kiwa Association of Former Intelligence Officers. He was also a long-time overseas, he served on three international school boards: the American the American School of Kinshasa (Zaire/Congo); and the Windhoek Intern. He was preceded in death by his father, Robert Funk, his brother, Rob McConnell Beam.

He is survived by his wife Moffie Funk of Helena, his children, Mark, Matthew (and Julie) Payne-Funk, Megan (and Kenny) Brisbane, Rebkah (and Desmond) Howard, and adopted daughter/niece Holy Funk, Gabriella (and Ababu) Tedessa, and step-children imprisoned many of these children during extended periods when he was residing in New York, and Virginia. He was justifiably proud of all his children, whom he considered not only as good sons and daughters but also as loyal friends who fortunately understood his sense of humor. He is also survived by his second wife, Meaza Simenehe Funk of Miami, Florida; his mother-in-law, Nancy Gordon of Virginia, who was a close friend in spite of traditional expectations; his sister-in-law, Laura Giannozzi of Florence, Italy who never failed to extend warm hospitality during his many visits to Tuscany; and his nineteen lively grandchildren and step-grandchildren, the surviving children of his late bro.

Annie Clemmer Funk : 1874-1912

Miss Annie Clemmer Funk unexpectedly secured passage on the Titanic because a coal strike had delayed the S.S. Haverford on which she was booked. She enjoyed the first days by celebrating her 38th birthday. In the night of the sinking, she was asleep in her cabin, was woken by the stewards, dressed and went on deck. Annie, according to a confirmed report, unselfishly relinquished her place in a lifeboat to a mother with children. She was about to enter a lifeboat, when a woman came from behind, pushing her aside by calling: "My children, My children." Her body, if recovered, was never identified.

Inscription: Civil War cannon has been dedicated to the memory of Arville L Funk: historian, author, lawyer, teacher, civic and church leader

This six-pound field gun is similar to those used by General John Hunt Morgan and the Harrison County Home Guard. One cannon was used by the Home Guard at the battle of Corydon. At the Battle of Corydon the Raiders had two cannons under the command of Basil Duke, 6th Kentucky Cavalry Regiment. Two additional cannons were located southwest of this point along the Mauckport Pike. After the Home Guard surrendered, Morgan placed one cannon pointing North and fired over the Town to Notify citizens of the surrender.

The June 1995 placement of this cannon and Historic plaque was made possible through generous donations of the following firms, individuals, and the general support of the Community.
